

ABSTRACT

Described are dough compositions and methods of preparing dough compositions, raw and baked, including preferred methods and compositions wherein chemical leavening agents are separated by a degradable barrier material
5 to control their reaction until a time during baking, wherein the chemical leavening agents at least partially leaven the dough composition during baking.

685

10